READING

A. Read the following interview with Shawn Mendes.

Shawn Mendes' favourite places in LA, Jamaica and Toronto

The LA-based star - who became the youngest singer to ever nab a number one album - gives us the low-down on his favourite view, the brunch spot he can't get enough of, and how travel inspires his songwriting

Where in the world inspires your songwriting?

I get most of my ideas on very busy weeks when I'm travelling through Europe or South America – that's where my inspiration comes from. I just write my ideas down and bring them with me to LA.

Describe your perfect day in LA.

I'd start at King's Road Café for breakfast. Then I'd have to go for a hike with my friends. I'd go to Runyon Canyon, as classic as that is.

Where can you get the best view of the city?

I would go back to the studio where I recorded my album, for the view at The Woodshed in Malibu. It has one of my favourite views in the whole world. You're up on a mountain, and you can see the whole cliff down the Pacific Coast Highway and all the way into the city.

Where else in the world do you find inspiration to record songs?

We recorded this album for three or four months. Most of that was in LA and Malibu, but we were in Jamaica for about 10 days. We stayed at a villa, Cocosan, which is a studio that's part of Geejam Studios in Port Antonio.

Describe your perfect day in Jamaica.

It's very hard to get any work done in Jamaica. It's way too relaxed. There was an amazing view outside the villa where we stayed, right by the beach. A step outside would turn into three hours outside. My perfect day in Port Antonio would just be sunbathing on the beach.

What's the best way to staycation in Canada, where you grew up?

Go to Vancouver, with some friends, and rent a boat. All you need is a driving licence, and you can rent a boat for 75 dollars. Take it out to the Indian River. There are all these waterfalls, and you can climb them. Depending on the time of year, there are hundreds of jelly fish and the water is so fresh.
